BENT BILL TEST IN LEGISLATURE COMES TODAY

Measure to Permit 6 Months' Stay Up.

BY ARTHUR M. EVANS.

Springfield, Ill., April 26.—[Special.] Decks are all cleared for action to-morrow on the chief bill which the Senate is to consider to-day. It is the six months' stay of execution bill. This morning it was advanced to third reading. In the finger tips of the right hand in the house without a hitch. Its supporters say it will be put on passage to-morrow.

An emergency legislation to take immediate effect after approval by the governor it requires a two-thirds vote of 122 votes. Its framers say 109 members are lined up for it. The others in touch declare it is still some votes shy of a two-thirds poll.

The liquid may be put into the depth just sufficient to cover the tips. The same oil may be used. The soaking time is at least 10 minutes at least.

BRITISH EXPERT SEES RUHR MOVE AS PRECIPITATE

Germany Not Yet in "Voluntary Default."

Mr. Keynes, author of "The Economic Consequences of the Peace," principal representative of the British treasury and deputy for the chancellor of the exchequer at the supreme economic council of the Paris peace conference, has written the following article for the New York World and The Tribune. In it he considers that the only specific question that can be dealt with at the moment, in reference to German reparations is the legality and moral desirability of the proposed occupation of the Ruhr.

BY JOHN M. KEYNES.
Copyright 1921 by The Press Publishing Company, Ltd., London, England. April 26.—As France has declared her intention of invading German territory and seizing German property in vindication of French rights under the treaty of Versailles, it is important for the United States, not less than Europe, to be clear how matters stand.

The treaty makes no specific provision for the nonfulfillment of its terms except in the case of the reparations commission. If, therefore, the Germans are at fault as regards disarmament or the trial of war criminals, the allies have no recourse except to invoke the terms of the covenant, which provides for the case of a dispute between a member of the league and a nonmember.

But in case of default in reparations the treaty prescribes it is a special procedure. In such a case it is the duty of the reparations commission to give notice of the default to each of the interested powers, and to recommend action. If the default is voluntary—there is no provision as to who is to decide this—Germany agrees not to regard as acts of war such "economic and financial prohibitions and reprisals, and in general such other measures" as the allies may deem necessary under the circumstances.

Basis of France's Action.

So far the reparations commission has not set this procedure in motion. The French government maintains, apparently, that the so-called supreme council, which is the committee which itself can take the initiative, was it contemplated when the treaty was framed that the reprisals under the clause quoted above would include invasion, since the rights of the allies in respect to the occupation of German territory were narrowly circumscribed in other parts of the treaty, largely in reference to British and American interests.

But the phrase "such other measures" is vague, and the French interpret it as devesting Germany for the next thirty years of the legal right to object to any action whatsoever by my allied government (without a general conference of all the allied and associate powers) if that government alleges that Germany is in voluntary default in respect to reparations.

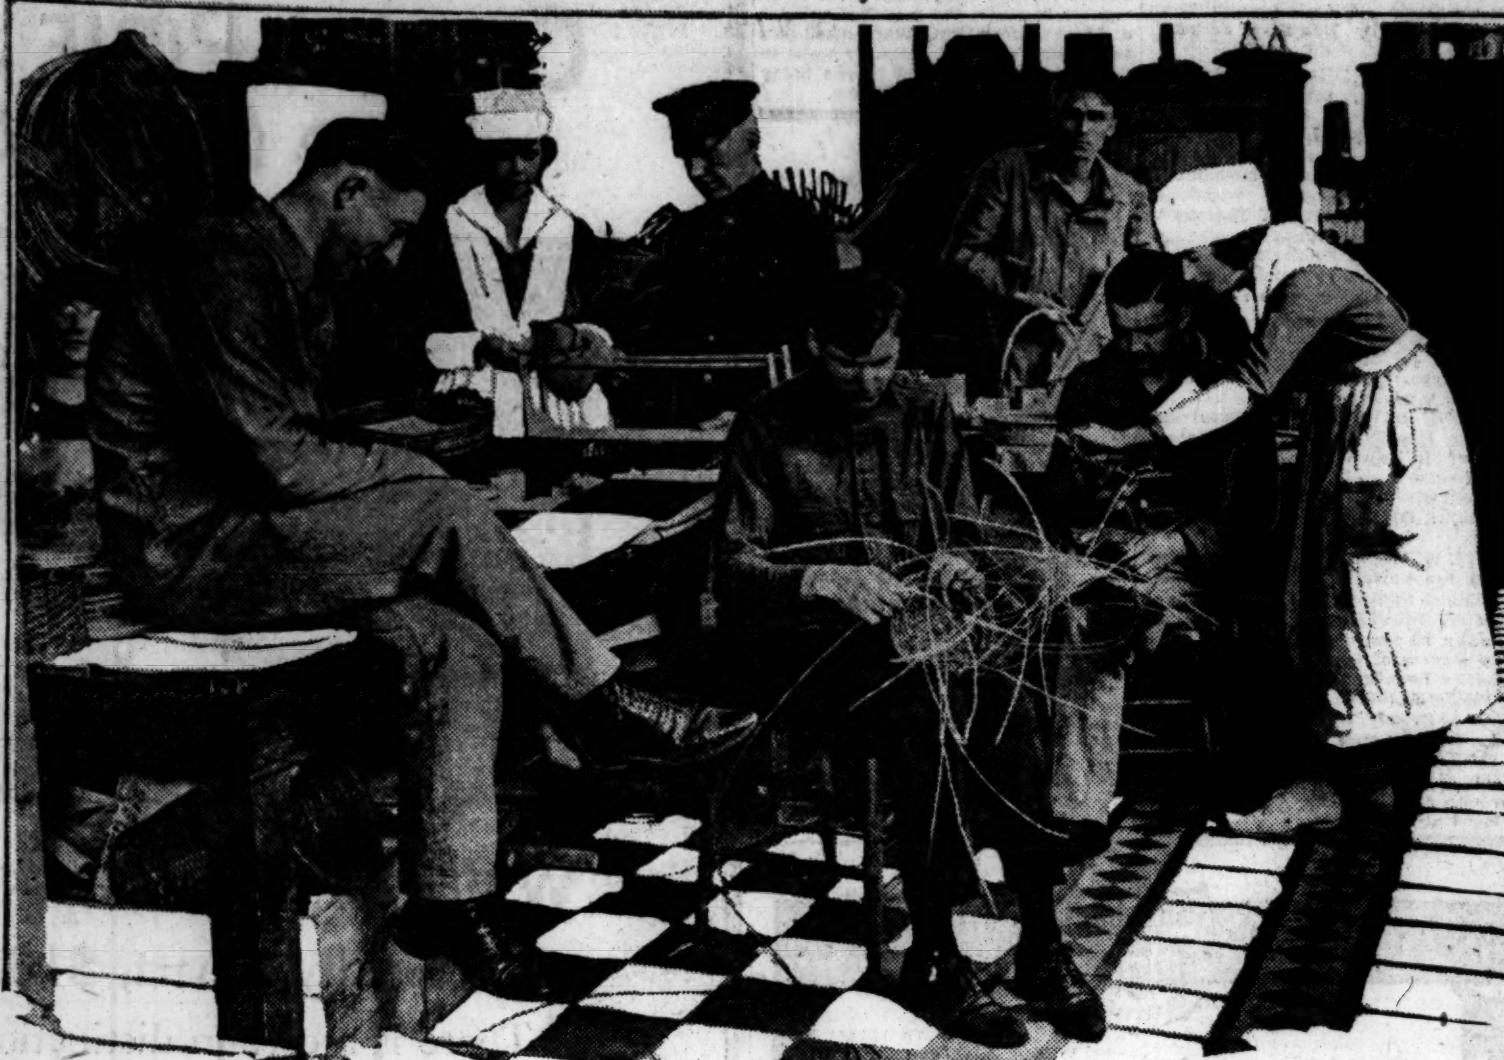

The points of doubt are, first, whether the phrase "such other measures" can be held to extend beyond the financial and economic sphere, and to include invasion; second, whether action can be taken by isolated powers without a general conference of all parties to the treaty, after notification by the reparations commission.

Germany in Voluntary Default.

The next question is whether it is a fact that Germany is in voluntary default. The treaty provides that before May 1, 1921, Germany shall pay, in respect of the reparations and in such manner as the reparations commission may fix, the equivalent of 26,000,000,000 gold marks.

After May 1, 1921, she is to pay in accordance with a scheme to be notified to her. No such scheme has been notified to her so far; indeed, the time for it has not yet arrived. Germany's failure to accept Paris' proposals does not constitute default, and they are outside of the treaty and include features unauthorized by the treaty, which Germany was at liberty either to accept or reject. At present, therefore, she can only be in default in respect of 20,000,000,000 marks.

The German government claims that it delivers already reach this figure. The reparation commission, on the other hand, asserts that default is at least above eight billions. There is room for wide differences of opinion, since no mode of valuation is laid down in the treaty. Ought ships, for example, to be taken at their value at the date when they are handed over, or at the low prices which they have realized subsequently during the slump period?

The committee which is entitled to decide the treaty to act on my trustworthy mode of computation." And its decision is final. Further, in my opinion, the German contention cannot be justified on its merits.

One Place Where She Balks.

Germany is therefore in default. Is she in "voluntary" default? She has been ordered to hand over forthwith a balance of 12,000,000,000 gold marks (about $3,000,000,000). No one can say that she is not to do this. But she has also been ordered to hand over 1,000,000,000 gold marks as the first instalment. Now so long as the Reichsbank holds 1,000,000,000 gold marks in its reserves Germany is physically capable of paying it over.

Germany also has some credits in foreign banks which she has accumulated for the purchase of food and raw material. If she were to pay over these credits it might result in starvation later, just as if she handed over all the gold in the Reichsbank, it might result in bankruptcy later on.

But at this moment it would be physically impossible for her to pay them over. In these circumstances therefore, and in view of the fact that she has been handed over skinning of her last tangible possession Germany is to be held by France to be technically in "voluntary" default.

Equitably, however, Germany cannot be held to be in voluntary default until she has refused a specific, reasonable demand. This is not yet the case. In respect of actual demands that have been made by the reparations committee to date I am not aware of any important case where she is in voluntary default in any sense except that Reichsbank gold.

I suspect, therefore, that the allies by severing it economically from the rest of the country they can reasonably expect to reduce nonagricultural Germany to the present condition of Spain. Such reparation commissioners may not produce reparations, but skillfully performed, they may possibly pay expenses and will certainly break the neck of a feared and hated neighbor.

Chances France with Coveting Power.

Three powerful forces have combined to drive France to this determination. The military party, including Foch, who has never abandoned the project of a Rhine frontier, see in it a step toward this aim, and also the opportunity to establish France as the effective dictator of Europe.

The industrial party, including Loubet, see in it the means of controlling the greater steel district in Europe and so protecting their own important enterprises, both in old France and in Lorraine.

Politicians, including Briand, see in it the means of placating ignorant and patriotic elements who will be satisfied with the results.

But the truth is Germans are a nation bewildered and humiliated beyond description, desperately ready to traverse any avenue out of their troubles and to perform up to the limit of their capacity for the sake of quiet life.

They propose the definite plan of reconstruction—devastated areas, and they will pledge their credit to an international loan to help France still enjoy the proceeds. They will deliver to us our material and any other materials we ask for. They offered us their labor and business profits.

'BRITAIN CANNOT DICTATE TO US,' JAP LEADER SAYS

Kato Against Fortifying Philippines.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)
(Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.)

TOKIO, April 26.—Viscount Kato, foreign minister under former Premier Okuma and now the leader of the opposition in the diet, declared today in the course of an interview regarding the Philippines, that Great Britain could not dictate the terms in the event of a renewal of the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

Viscount Kato, who was the first Japanese to graduate from Harvard university, was ambassador to London when the original alliance was drafted and was also the author of the twenty-one demands on China.

Philipine Ambitions.

"Japan has no Philippine ambitions," he began. "If it had it could have realized them long before America went there. Argentina entertained some hope of getting Japanese interested, but we gave him no encouragement."

"What Japan wants is an orderly and peaceful Philippines. Whether the world gets independence or not is no concern of ours. On the whole, if they are not quite ready for independence they should remain under American sovereignty."

"At the same time we do not want the islands strongly fortified and a menace to peace in this part of the world. So far we do not want naval rivalry. We are very much concerned about the concentration of naval power in the Pacific."

"Independence or not, all Japan wants is an opportunity for peaceful development in the Philippines. As to the ownership, that is no concern of ours. But in the matter of armament we are much concerned, for it means that there will be a heavy burden on the Pacific."

Do Not Need Britain.

Then suddenly the viscount thundered:

"There is no reason why the Anglo-Japanese alliance should be renewed. The world stands strong enough now as a man who had an important part in drafting the alliance. If Great Britain or Australia thinks that Japan is eager to get an alliance under any conditions that may be imposed they are much mistaken."

The British have been masters of the orient so long that they look on the Japanese as intruders. They must change that view."

UNION DECIDES KANSAS MINERS BROKE CONTRACT

Pittsburg, Kas., April 28.—The committee of the national board of the United Mine Workers of America, which came here several days ago at the request of John L. Lewis, international president, to investigate a month's shutdown at the Dean mine in Kansas, last night held local union officials to be in the right.

It is understood the committee's report will hold that the shutdown of the mine violates the contract between the miners and the operators.

The next step will depend on the attitude of Alexander Howat, president of the operators, to whom a copy of the report will be sent to-day, and an answer demanded. It was stated the representatives of the miners refused to direct their men to return to work even after the operators agreed to put the mine in the same condition it was prior to the controversy.

Trolley Conductor's Story.

A conductor on the Chicago-Joliet trolley, returning to Joliet after the description of Brethold caught the train at the end of the Archer avenue surface line Monday night. He had a ticket for Joliet.

When the train reached Romeo the conductor called the station. The man thought to be Brethold, who had been sleeping, woke up and started to leave. The conductor says he called after him that the stop was Romeo and not Joliet. The man did not turn around or appear to hear what was said to him. He walked briskly up the road, disappearing in the darkness.

Brethold's Yield No Clew.

The bundle of clothes contained a new pair of blue trousers, two suits, one gray checked, one gray striped, three shirts, and a rough brown hat. They were wrapped in the late edition of afternoon paper dated Monday, April 25.

The pay envelopes, on which were printed an advertisement of the Greenbaum & Sons bank, contained the following sums: $50, $25, $46, $25, $15, $14, and $235. Besides this money there were in his vest pocket a $2 bill, a $1 note, and half of a torn $1 bill.

He had a "piggy bank" which had a small box $954 in the Greenbaum & Sons' bank, numerous "ads" of flats for rent, and cards of real estate agents.

Brethold's relatives supposed him to have about $300. It is said his father gave him $200 last Thursday, and he drew his pay at the grocery last Saturday. Where he obtained the rest of the currency has not been learned.

TREE PLANTING PLAN APPROVED ON EVERY HAND

Postmaster General Joins Boosters' Ranks.

BY LEOLA ALLARD.

The TRIBUNE's idea of planting trees on the roads in memory of all world war soldiers has brought out not one dissenting voice. The sentiment in these Roads of Remembrance has stirred every heart that heard them, and Douglas Malloch, poet of the woods, has sent his TRIBUNE lines in which less poetic tongues were unable to say the same deep felt things. "They follow:

No marble shaft immortalizes these,
No granite shaft nor graven monument.
Their fame is written in eternal trees,
To mark the path of glory that they wore.

The proudest shaft shall crumble into dust;

The brightest letters dim in distant years;

The touch of time shall gnaw the statured bough;

But trees, kept verdant by all nature's tears.

Although they fall, shall rise from their own seed;

To tell the tale of sacrifice again;

The story that the passing strangers
read;

Retold to centuries of other men.

Plan Commended on All Hands.

Commendation of the proposal continued to pour in from many quarters.

Postmaster General Hays says:

"The plan to plant memorial trees along the nation's highways has been marked for each American soldier who served in the world war, is fine, and ought to be countrywide in its adoption.
I understand the trees to be planted will be for the most part the oak and the fir, both sturdy and long lived. These are symbolic of the growth and strength of our affection and admiration for the sacrifices made by our brave boys in that great conflict for liberty."

Mrs. William D. Caldwell, president of the executive board and organizer of the Lincoln Highway Memorial association, Canton, O., voices approval of the plan and a wish to cooperate.
She writes:

"Canton, the largest city on the highway between Pittsburgh and Omaha, has adopted a plan of planting none but Norway maples and elms of uniform size along this highway.
We have planted many trees and marked them."

Minnesota Plants Trees.

William T. Cox, state forester at St.
Paul, Minn., writes:

"Minnesota has already planted 10,000 trees in honor of her soldiers dead along highways, park and school grounds. You can depend on us for cooperation."

R. B. Miller, state forester at Urbandale, Ia., writes:

"I assure you of my hearty personal support in forwarding the idea of 'Roads of Remembrance' for our soldiers."

The Des Moines Capital, Lafayette
Young, editor, says editorially:
"THE TRIBUNE's suggestion ought to be ratified everywhere. The planting of trees should be placed on a higher ground than a mere benefit.
It is hoped that this movement may be ratified by all organizations representing service in any of our American wars."

CAR BUMP, TRUCK, AND THEN DOCTOR—BOY CRYES ENOUGH, FLEES

Pedestrians along Roosevelt road yesterday were regaled with the spectacle of a small boy dashing down the street with sundry doctors, nurses, and other citizens in pursuit. Seven year old Ferris Wilson, 3814 Roosevelt road at Independence boulevard — bumped into the path of a approaching coal truck. The latter stopped just in time to avoid hitting him. When Ferris was taken to a nearby doctor's office, however, he decided that this matter had gone far enough. So he hopped out of the office and proceeded to show the doctor an agitated pair of heels. When finally caught he was taken to the county hospital.

EXPERTS FAIL TO APPEAR FOR HEARING ON FEES

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

The city's two building and three street experts, who have collected $2,736,866 in fees on six street improvements within a year failed to appear at the Chicago Real Estate board room yesterday, after President L.
M. Smith said they had promised to be present.

President Smith's Statement.

The Smith formal statement continues:

"These experts have been invited to appear before the members of the advisory council today, to give them first hand information regarding these charges, and had agreed to be present; but, owing to the commencement of the suit by The Tribune company to recover more than $1,004,000 paid Austin J. Lynch and Frank H. Mesce, the two building specialists. But it will be recalled that Ernest H. Lyons told the residents of his home suburb, through the Evanston News-Index, his side of the expert-ing story—and this was repeated in several days after the suit of The Tribune company had been filed. Evidently there has been a change in policy."

The statement concludes with the following:

"The members of the advisory council realize the gravity of these charges, but do not to act definitely until they are in possession of all the facts, which should be brought out fully in the pending court proceedings. After the disposition of these suits the advocacy council will be enabled to pass upon the matter intelligently, with due consideration to the interests of the property owners and the public welfare."

It was Jan. 26 last that Ald. Wallace claimed at a meeting of the city's real estate and building experts recently employed by the city, to the effect that they have received grossly excessive fees in connection with the making of valuations of real estate and buildings in the process of condemnation by the board of local improvements."

The Chicago Real Estate board had all of the time between those dates and April 19 in which to "pass upon the matter intelligently, with due consideration to the interests of the property owners and the public welfare."

HEY, SKIN-NAY!
COMOVER! GET A TRIBUNE BIKE

Entry Grows Keen in the Subscription Contest.

Her, kid how many you got? I've got with six more promised." It was Young Chicago talking to his dad. You could hear them on the sidewalks and in various other places. They were talking about THE TRIBUNE's offer of a $50 Ranger bike to every boy or girl or adult who sent in thirty-five subscriptions for the World's Greatest Newspaper.

In even greater numbers than on Wednesday when the sidewalk and the elevators were jammed with them, the boys and girls of Chicago yesterday swarmed the downtown office of THE TRIBUNE. Hundreds lined up at room after room to get their books and thousands of questions and inquiries came in by mail and over the phone.

Emergency Clerks Needed.

Sixteen noon authorities in charge of the contest were forced to enlarge their quarters and press twenty-five more emergency clerks into service, but still they came, and the new offices were swamped. Now, in addition to the downtown offices, there are twenty branch offices where subscription books for THE TRIBUNE's $300,000 contest can be bought.

Boys and girls, if you haven't got a subscription book you better get one. Remember, THE TRIBUNE has 5,000 of these swell Ranger bikes to give away, and there is no red tape about it.

All you have to do is get out one of the subscription books and have thirty-five persons, now non-subscribers for THE TRIBUNE, sign up to take the patient. You don't have to collect any money.

Can Have "Bike" at Once.

When you have got the thirty-five subscribers, bring in your book. We will verify the subscriptions given you in like manner.

The contest closes on May 1, but you don't have to wait for all subscriptions have been verified.

Yesterday was only the second day of the contest, but some of the boys and girls, too, for that matter, had almost enough subscriptions. So it's better get busy. The sooner you get the subscriptions the sooner you get the bike, and remember, sunday is coming and your Ranger will be waiting at the swimming hole, the forest reserve, and the country right up to your back door.

BOTTLE YIELDS 1921 VERSION OF "SPANISH MAIN"

Norfolk, Va., April 26.—A message purporting to explain the disappearance of the captain and crew of the schooner Carroll A. Deering, mystery ship of Diamond Shoals, reached coast guard officials here today from Christopher C. Gray of Buxton, N. C. He declared he had taken the message from a bottle washed up just north of Cape Hatteras.

"Deering captured by oil burning craft. Something like chaser."
"Taking off everything . . . cutting (probably handcuffing) crew. Crew hidning off over ship. No chance to make escape. Finder please notify (indecipherable) . . . qts
of Deering . . . (word missing.)"

ton, and with a crew of twelve, sailed from a South American port last winter and was next heard of at daylight on a January morning when it was found fast on the outer shoal with all sail set and no sign of its people. It has gradually disappeared in the sands.

The authenticity of the message, as to the authenticity of which officials expressed no opinion, read:

"Deering captured by oil burning
craft. Something like chaser."
"Taking off everything . . . cutting (probably handcuffing) crew. Crew hidning off over ship. No chance to make escape. Finder please notify (indecipherable) . . . qts
of Deering . . . (word missing.)"

It was unsigned, written in ink, and partly undecipherable.

ARMA VIRUMQUE CANO

The first words of Virgil's "Aeneid" tell the story of Stanley Martysh, "team placer" in the city dumps, who yesterday for the first time used his new pair of automatic arms, which his friends had purchased for him at a cost of $350. In the above picture Stanley is shown, pencil in hand, checking a team that has just arrived at the dump.

Stanley Martysh grasped a salt cellar and salted his meat himself last night and his wife nearly fainted from joy. It was the first time Stanley had cooked his own meat in sixteen years.

Stanley is a "team placer" at the city dumps on the lake front. He lives at 3741 Ellis avenue. Sixteen years ago he lost both arms in a machine shop accident in the east. In spite of his handicap, he got a job with the city and his foreman says that using only his feet Stanley can level off a load of ashes quickly as an ordinary man with a rake.

At the health and sanitation show last fall, a collaborator saw a model of a pair of automatic arms. Stanley's friends at the dump clubbed together and bought a pair of the arms for $350.

After trying out the arms, which are operated by movements of the shoulders, Stanley wrote Health Commissioner Robertson a letter in which he said:

"Thank you for enabling me to become a useful member of society and a man once more. May God bless you."

With the new arms Stanley can straighten his hat when it becomes awry, pull down his earlaps and dress himself. Jobs which others have done for him for years.

STATE ASSAILS CRANE DEFENSE AS 'FAMILY ALIBI'

Herbert P. Crane Jr., charged with a serious offense against Louise Sturm, was criticized for leading a "slothful existence" by attorneys for the state, who started their final arguments in Judge Thompson's court yesterday.

Assistant State's Attorney H. J.
O'Connell pictured him to the jury as a "three months" man, and called attention to the fact that he has failed to work since he was 27 years old. The statements made by witnesses for the defense he ridiculed as part of a "perfect family alibi."

Recalls Bribe Attempt Charge.

Attorney Frederick A. Bangs, in his closing argument, called attention to the charge that the state's chief witness had tried to bribe Crane into testifying.

State's Attorney Thomas Peden will close the state's argument this morning and the defendant's fate will then rest with the jury.

A MANN ACT FOR CRIMINALS.

A gang of crooks may steal an automobile in Milwaukee or Kenosha or any nearby town over the Illinois border, make a raid into this state, steal, injure or kill and with another dash be back in Wisconsin. The Illinois police power stops at the state line. The work of detection and arrest is up to the Wisconsin police powers. If the men are arrested they can be brought back to Illinois to be punished, but a locality which has suffered little if any from the crime must get the men and the locality which has suffered much cannot.

Chicago crooks may make a dash into Hammond, Ind., and if they get safely back across the Illinois line with their plunder the detection and arrest of the men is up to the Chicago police, who have enough to do in getting the gangsters and criminals who plunder and kill in this community.

Law does not stop at the state lines, but its methods change, protecting the sovereignty of the state and also in considerable measure protecting the crooks. The passage of a state line does not mean asylum and immunity, but it is a good reason for a crook if he can cross one. It is a barrier and the law goes slower.

Naturally the police are not as much interested in getting a criminal whose act has started and hurt the people of another community or state as they are in getting a criminal whose acts have hurt the people the police are hired to protect. The police will not lose their jobs for failures to get men who have committed crimes elsewhere. They might lose them if they failed to get criminals who were continuously injuring the home town.

The federal government says that if a citizen of one state crosses a state line with a woman and is guilty of immorality he is responsible to the United States law. An act of immorality becomes much graver, if the guilty persons have gone from one state to another, than it would have been if they had not. The inherent immorality has not been aggravated but the legal consequences have been.

The federal government holds that the crossing of a state line brings many acts into a new classification, making them more serious than they would have been if they had remained within the jurisdiction of one state.

A good deal of government restriction and of punishment flows from this now accepted principle. That being the case, why cannot the federal law accept the responsibility in a crime of violence in which state lines have become involved? It accepts responsibility if the crime has been one against morals. It crosses state lines to regulate manufacturers. It crosses them to regulate habit.

It rules the people socially and economically upon the assumption that the crossing of a state line gives it jurisdiction, and in many cases that jurisdiction is more sternly carried into effect than the jurisdiction of the states individually would be.

Crimes of violence affect the lives and security of the people. They affect their living and means of living. The security of life and property is the first care of government. Until that has been obtained government has not been really established.

Why, then, should not the federal government take jurisdiction when in a crime of violence the criminals have fled from the jurisdiction of one state into the jurisdiction of another? Then the criminal instead of finding that a state line is a barrier against pursuit would find that it started a new pursuer on the trail and one equipped with greater powers than a state and likely to exact a greater punishment than a state would enact.

The immoral man finds that a greater terror is on his track if he crosses a state line. Why should not the criminal find that a greater power is after him if he leaves the jurisdiction of the state in which he has committed his crime?

GOMPERS' FIGHT FOR AMERICANISM.

Probably the only way to cure the American radical who still sentimentalizes over Russian communism would be to send him over to enjoy its effects. We cannot deport on any such scale, and apparently no evidence will convince the zealot who prefers his theories to the facts. Of course, the answer he holds up as a buckler against disillusionment is that bolshevism or Marxian communism has not had a fair chance. It can only have a fair chance when all the world is communized. This is an easy method of avoiding a demonstration of failure. But what does the common sense of the American labor movement make of it?

It is true Lenin's fanatical internationalism has kept Russia in continual warfare and shut her off from the aid she might have had from foreign capital and from democratic peoples. "Russia is an economic unit and a world in itself, with an enormous population and a full equipment of all resources necessary to modern society." Nevertheless, we have the ruin of its great cities, the progressive demolition of its commerce and industries, the decline of the Russian people to a stage of primitive economic production, and the restoration of a tyranny over the individual worthy of czarism at its worst. In this communist experiment the trade union and its champion have been handled as ruthlessly as if it were an agent of capitalist tyranny. Perhaps American radicals think that was justifiable, but hardly the rank and file of free American workers.

As to the expediency of recognizing or refusing to recognize the bolshevik party rule as a de facto government, there may be honest difference of opinion, but the attacks upon Mr. Gompers and other leaders of American trade unionism for their opposition to recognition comes from men who have no respect for the American ideals of human freedom and representative democracy. Mr. Gompers has, and his fight within the ranks of labor is for Americanism against reactionary Russification. In this he deserves the moral support of all Americans in or out of the ranks of the wage earner.

SHAKEDOWNS."

Ald. George Maypole is reported to have thrown the city council into an uproar by demanding an investigation into the "shaking down" of civil service employees in behalf of the Republican, the medium of city hall propaganda. "Up roar" probably overstates the demonstration. Judging by the ease with which the Maypole resolution was hurried to the civil service committee under Ald. Armistage, a Lundin-Thompson henchman, it is probable the administration forces in the council were not greatly perturbed by the probability of painful developments.

Today they are "sitting pretty" with the incident already forgotten, and with the resolution in safe hands. The possibility of an investigation such as that asked by Ald. Maypole is nil.

But while the administration is congratulating itself upon having got away with one more achievement it might do well to remember a slightly similar situation earlier in Illinois political history. In the administration of former Gov. Richard Yates it was considered good politics to assess state employees some 5 per cent of their salaries to return to power the administration which gave them jobs. A great slush fund was raised, but administration and jobs failed to make good. There is a thought for the Thompson-Lundin organization. There are things at which even a political machine might better hesitate. No doubt it would like to make history. It can look to history for valuable precedent.

THE UNCHANGING WORLD.

The year is 1921 A. D. Wireless antennae drape the roofs of skyscrapers. Shadows of life more real than any ghost flicker across the silver sheets in thousands of temples erected to the new cult, Olympos. One may taxi to the postoffice and deposit therein a letter or a parcel to be delivered by an airplane flying more rapidly than any magic carpet of Bagdad. It is an age of practical, hardened magic incorporated for millions and with boards of directors.

And yet in a South Clark street window is a display of paraphernalia for the old fashioned kind of magic, which still appears to be flourishing. One may buy a crystal globe for all the way from $2.50 to $250, and with it peer distractingly into the future. One may purchase a leather bound volume, printed on vellum, that will unlock all of nature's royal arcana and enable the raisings of the dead by charms and incantations. For a paltry $5 one may penetrate the past and the future in company with an adept of the far east, with a photograph in costume to prove it. The frontispiece of one of the books shows a magician in the act of conjuring up the shades from the graves in which pious hands have laid them to rest. All of the books are garbed more stylishly and more expensively than Goethe, Flaubert, Tolstoi, Masterlink, France, or even Shakespeare appear to be able to afford.

And there must be buyers, for display of displays. This is still the year 1 as well as 1921.

FALSE ECONOMY AND NATIONAL DEFENSE.

Economy can be carried to a point at which it causes to be economy and becomes a very costly waste.

This truism should not be forgotten by congress in dealing with the navy and army estimates. If, with the intention of saving the taxpayer, congress appropriates less than is sufficient for the efficient upkeep of an adequate organization of our sea and land defenses, it will be serving the people's safety and not the nation's good.

The condition of the world does not justify the impairment of our defenses, naval or military. The public may be suffering from reaction from war sacrifices, but if members of congress have a patriotic conscience they will not allow an unwise and dangerous mood to obstruct proper measures.

If the navy and army are cut to a level which is not sufficient to sustain an expansion in case of war, congress cannot escape blood-guiltiness.

Our recent experience of wasted lives and wasted billions is so recent as to put further negligence in the category of crimes. The blood of patriots sacrificed to our past indifference and wrongdoing cries out against it.

Congress should listen to our experts and resolve doubts in favor of their recommendations. We want economy. But it should be accomplished, not at the expense of the national security, but if members of congress have a patriotic conscience they will not allow an unwise and dangerous mood to obstruct proper measures.

If the navy and army are cut to a level which is not sufficient to sustain an expansion in case of war, congress cannot escape blood-guiltiness.

The wounded Lion, in tow of her consort, was surrounded by a score of destroyers, and from her bridge that evening I watched in the calm twilight the beautiful evolutions of these craft as, weaving in and out in ever changing formation, they formed a submarine screen round the ship.

Destroyers as Protection.

All about us as far as we could see, the divisions were zigzagging, weaving their web of safety for us, and very comforting indeed was the presence of these glorious little ships with their trembling bodies and furious hearts. As night fell the Commodore (T) made a general signal to them: "Keep a good lookout for submarines at dawn; if seen, shoot and ram them."

It was indeed a strange evening and night. Perhaps the silence of the ship was the strangest element of all—the absence of those buzzings and whinnings that come from the innumerable dynamos, ventilating fans, refrigerating machines, and motors that are necessary hawsers, which several times broke, could be passed between the two ships, and it was after 5 before we began our slow progress homeward, along the road over which we had made such an exhilarating chase in the morning. It was a strange journey, lasting all that night and all the next day and through the night following.

The wounded Lion, in tow of her consort, was surrounded by a score of destroyers, and from her bridge that evening I watched in the calm twilight the beautiful evolutions of these craft as, weaving in and out in ever changing formation, they formed a submarine screen round the ship.

Suffer from Cold.

Most of us had headches; all of us had black faces, torn clothes, and jangled nerves. The ship was as cold as ice, all the electric lights by which the cabins were warmed being out of action. Blows and hammering echoed on the decks down below where the carpenters were at work. The sick bay, into which I looked before turning in was a mess of blood and dirt, feebly lighted by oil lamps, from whence moans proceeded.

The admiral had gone back to the Princess Royal, but the remaining staff managed, nevertheless, to have quite a chat. We were at Cuxhaven, Germany, and many were injured. The officers did not learn of the escape of the German fleet with the exception of the Blücher.

TORNADO, FLOODS, LIGHTNING KILL 16 IN 3 STATES

Widespread Storm Creates Havoc.

Jackson, Miss., April 26.—More than a dozen persons are reported to have been killed and a score injured in a tornado at Braxton, eighteen miles from here, this afternoon.

Every business house was destroyed and many of the residences either totally or partially wrecked. The loss is estimated at more than $100,000. There are 500 inhabitants.

The storm wreaked wide connections and reports from the area are meager.

Lightning Kills Two.

Moline, Ill., April 26.—Two men were killed in nearby cities last evening by the storm that swept this section of the country. John Dolan, 44, Albany, and David Van Asdren, 40, Sheffield, were killed by lightning.

Two Drown in Texarkana.

Texarkana, Ark., April 25.—Torrential rains flooded land around Texarkana, did property damage estimated at more than $100,000, and put the city camping station out of commission. Two Negroes are reported drowned.

Wisconsin Hard Hit.

Milwaukee, April 26.—As the result of the torrential downpours of rain today, floods inundated fields, ruined orchards, endangered homes and caused thousands of dollars in damage in this city and in surrounding country. The gage at Genoa Junction gave way and villages in the neighborhood are under water. The deluge created havoc in and about Janesville, Oshkosh, Kenosha, and along the Menominee, Milwaukee, and Rock rivers. Lake Winnebago threatens overflow.

DREAM BANKER' TISDELL AGAIN OCCUPIES CELL

Archie C. Tisdele, called the "dream banker," because of his alleged vapory business transactions, is again in jail.

This time on a complaint signed by Giuseppe Matala, 23, of West 24th street, a propulsive dealer, who charges Tisdele sold him $2,000 worth of valueless stock in 1918.

Tisdele was arrested by Detective Sergeant James Cully in his office at 118 North La Salle street. He spent the night at the detective bureau.

Tisdele first came into the limelight in 1902 when he organized and became president of the "Bachman Trust," an organization that required all members to deposit in the treasury $500, to be paid out whenever a member married. He was indicted in 1908 on charges of accepting deposits when his bank was insolvent. He has never been brought to trial.

Benjamin Mazerek, 19 years old, 1729 Girard street, the driver of the car, was booked on a speeding and disorderly conduct charge.

Mr. Frank M. Tavel, 52 years old, 4001 Sheridan avenue, and G. C. Taylor, 45 years old, 4001 Sheridan road, a real estate man, were injured last night when a west bound street car collided with an automobile driven by Dr. F. E. Deadman, 1326 North Central avenue. DEALERS WARN 6 DAY WEEK WILL BOOST MILK COST

The only way the Illinois Milk Dealers' association can grant the Milk Wagon Drivers' demand for a six day week would be by raising the price of milk, according to a statement issued by the association yesterday.

"The industry cannot operate on a six day plan without adding one more man for every six," the statement reads. "It means 17 per cent addition to the cost of production and must be paid, if paid at all, by the consumer."

Soldier Ill for Two Years Shoots Himself

For two years Joseph La Vergne Shepard, 26 years old, 529 East Forty-seventh place, fought against an illness which followed a year of service on the Mexican border and two years overseas with the 122d field artillery. Six months ago a slight operation failed to relieve him. Yesterday he shot and killed himself in his mother's arms. Harry H. Kendall, and sister, Miss Vesta Shepard, were preparing to move to 1435 East Seventy-first street.

Wife Ends Defense and Begins Her Attack.

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—Names of Chicago men and women were read into the Stokes divorce case today, efforts to link them definitely with the name of Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes failed.

The names included Helen Harris, Ellen Miller or Helen Wood, Benjamin Harrison, "Joe" Jordan, Lawrence Chastain, and Charles Parker.

Mrs. Stokes denied ever knowing them or having lived in Chicago.

The Tall Dark Stranger.

Identify of the "tall dark man," both and otherwise unnamed co-defendant, was disclosed by Mrs. Stokes. It was Elliott Brown, roommate at the of Victor Miller, Mrs. Stokes' half brother, who was an occasional visitor at the Stokes home. When Brown remained over night he shared the room of "Wedding Stokes, son of Stokes and Mrs. Stokes."

Mrs. Stokes denied going to Brown's room at 3 a.m., as charged by a maid.

This ended her testimony and Mrs. Stokes launched under questioning of her attorneys, into presentation of her own case for divorce.

The Titan haired beauty began her story with her marriage in 1911. The campaign of cruelty began six weeks later, she said.

"Mr. Stokes had held me in bed for nearly four hours," she testified, "and I asked him to pay some bills I had contracted for clothing. He jumped on me."

ROBERT SHAEFER?

DRINKS QUART OF WHISKY A DAY, HE BOASTS; DEAD

A man, believed to be Robert E. Shaefer of Pittsburgh, died at the People's hospital yesterday, supposedly of alcoholism. Late Monday night he was brought to the hospital by a friend, who left without giving a name. He was under the influence of liquor and boasted to a nurse that he had drunk a quart of whisky every day for the last six months.

Before hospital authorities could get his name he lapsed into unconsciousness and several hours later died. In his possession were found a large number of papers made out in the name of Robert E. Shaefer. There was a warrant for his arrest on a federal charge and another was a receipt for $50.

On a card was found the name of Attorney Bernard B. McGinnis of Pittsburgh, and in answer to a telegram the attorney wired as follows:

"Mr. Shaefer and my partner, G. C. Clarkson, left here a week ago."

MAROONS BOAST BEST BALL TEAM IN RECENT YEARS

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Tight pitching by Herbert C. Crisler, combined with some timely hits and costly errors by the Purple, gave Chicago a victory over Northwestern yesterday on Stage field, 5 to 0.

The Maroon team as it played yesterday was one of the best developed on the Midway in recent years. The players handle the ball well, and in most cases played their positions in a manner which should result in more victories before the curtain drops on the conference in June.

Although Chicago won handily, its play can be improved offensively and defensively. The sacrifice was conspicuous by its absence, although it should have been used on several occasions while the defense looked bad at times.

When Wrong Play Helped.

In the third inning Dixon of Chicago led off with a double. Under these conditions there have been to sacrifice the first baseman, but Fedore swung hard at the first ball pitched and luckily singled to left. Dixon scampered home, and Fedore took second on the peg. Capt. Cole then came to bat with the same conditions existing, and instead of sacrificing, took a healthy swing and connected for a single. Yardley hit a fly ball, and Fedore followed and allowed Fedore and Cole to score.

In the fourth inning Schultz, the Maroon right fielder, was given a walk with one man down. Curtis then followed, with instructions to bat. He laid the ball down nicely for a sacrifice, instead of trying the hit and run, or permit Schultz to try to steal. Luckily Dixon followed with a single which scored Schultz. In the second inning Yardley led off with a single and Parslow attempted to bunt the ball, struck out when he should have tried to sacrifice the runner to third.

Not Always Forfeited.

On defense the Maroons looked bad at times. In the second inning Palmer of Northwestern led with a single. Anderson was sent up to sacrifice. As the big first baseman fouled off two balls, the first and third basemen moved in, but Second Baseman Fryer made no attempt to cover first base. Both had good hits against Crisler and Dixon, with the chances of both going after it, there should have been no one covering the initial sack for the putout.

With Palmer on third and two men down, Curtis, the Midway third sacker, played with one foot on the base until Crisler delivered the ball. Then he moved over, but was not set when the ball came in his plate. With two men down, the fielders should play the better, something which was not done by the Maroons at all times.

Coached by Old Maroon Star.

This year's Maroon team is being coached by Fred Merrifield, who was a member of Chicago teams from 1897 to 1900. He was a pitcher and captained the Maroon team of 1898, when he was considered one of the leading hitters in the Big Nine.

Bobby Cole of football fame is captain and plays center field. He fields well, but the shoulder hurt in the Ohio State football game last year handicaps his throwing. He is fast and hits well.

Henry Schulz in right and Marshall Pfeifer in left are also good fielders, though the former is a poor man to catch. Eddie Palmer, brother of Chuck, is a good pitcher and center fielder; while Harry Birch and Bundt Ford are considered the best utility men.

FIGHTERS OF 1921 KEEPING BUSY GETTING REWARD

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Although there has been no considerable reduction in advertising space used, American business men are seeking greater efficiency per inch of space, according to the domestic distribution department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The department has just completed a survey to determine what manufacturers, retailers, and wholesalers are doing to cut overhead expenses as a means of meeting the demand for lower prices.

"What have you done to reduce your publicity to a normal basis?" was one of the questions asked.

More than a fourth of those answering said they were reducing advertising space. This was balanced in part by reports from many others who felt justified in increased use of advertising. There was an actual increase in the use of circularizing as a means of publicity, an indication perhaps of a desire quickly to move accumulated stock.

Frequently through the comment which accompanied the answers to the questions there appeared a note of determination not to cut off advertising as a method of selling, but to make certain of greater results.

Some of the answers said:

"We have taken measures to reduce our advertising space, as it is our feeling that it is a false economy to cut down advertising at a time when business is in need of a stimulant to keep it alive."

"We are economizing in space and size of issues, but not pruning as to number of, or kind of channels. Our newspaper advertising rates have very materially increased, however."

"We do not feel that we should decrease publicity; if any change is made, it should be increased."

Farmers Discuss Pooling of Whole U. S. Cotton Crop

Memphis, Tenn., April 26.—Plans to "pool" the American cotton crop are discussed here today by representatives of cotton producers from nearly all the cotton states. Uniform marketing contracts and farmers' pledges covering at least seven years are sought. The conference was called by the American Farm Bureau federation.

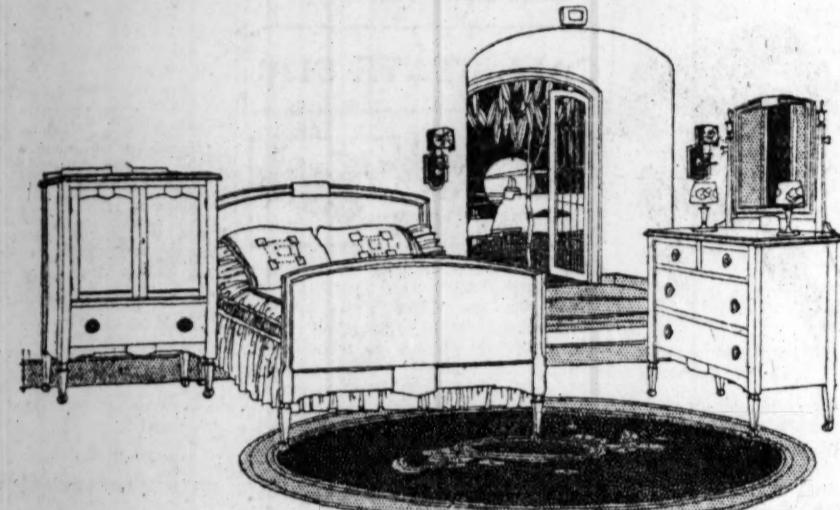

ELECTRICIAN ON BAHAI TEMPLE DROWNS IN CANAL

William Gorman, 2731 Harrison, 36th street, an electrician employed in the construction of the Bahai temple, was drowned when he slipped into the drainage canal at Sheridan road in Wilmette shortly after midnight yesterday. The lights on the bridge under construction had been cut half an hour before and Gorman was en route over to help repair when the mishap occurred. His bride of a year and a half survives him. Gorman was the son of the late Capt. Harry Gorman of the Shakespeare aviator station.

DEMOCRATS SEE PERIL OF "BACK DOOR JUDGES"

Name Ticket; Denounce
City Hall's Raid.

BY PARKE BROWN.

In opening the battle for the coalition ticket yesterday the Democratic county convention charged that Landis-Thompson city hall managers hopes to fill the bench with back door judges.

The ordinary everyday citizen, and the platform adopted unanimously, enters the front door of a courtroom to obtain justice, and expects it if he is the opponent or a political enemy. If his opponent has a key to the back door of the courtroom through which the judge enters his chambers.

"Back door judge" is not merely a slur to the bench, he is a menace to the community. He undermines confidence in the courts. He destroys respect for the law. He is an incentive to anarchy and revolution.

We want no "back door judge" in Cook County.

Here is the Ticket.

The "sitting judges" ticket," as unanimously nominated, is the name in the order in which they will appear on the ballot, follows:

CIRCUIT COURT.

John C. Kersten, Dem.

John R. Cawley, Dem.

Thomas J. Lynch, Dem.

James H. Moir, Dem.

Donald L. Merrill, Dem.

David M. Brothers, Rep.

Charles M. Thompson, Rep.

John M. Fisher, Dem.

John T. Taylor Jr., Rep.

John S. Quinn, Rep.

George F. Rush, Rep.

Frank Johnston Jr., Dem.

Victor P. Arnold, Rep.

Francis S. Wilson, Dem.

Oscar M. Barron, Dem.

Thomas G. Windes, Dem.

Al A. Swanson, Rep.

SUPERIOR COURT.

Henry D. Harley, Dem.

The twenty places in the Circuit court are evenly divided between the Republicans and the Democrats, the Judge-Deneen organization adding the name of Municipal Judge John A. Brown to the names of the nine小白公公. There are five present Democratic judges included, making a total of sitting judges fourteen.

ASSAIL CITY HALL MACHINE.

In addition to accusing the city hall machine of attempting to elect "back door judges," the platform charges that this "gang" has done the following:

Bankrupted the city.

Increased taxes and raised rents.

Demoralized the police force.

Fostered vice.

Exacted tribute from gamblers and bookmakers.

Aroused class feeling and race hatred.

Juggled election returns.

Placed into the hands of public officials.

Exacted huge sums for political expense.

"Krisis now confronts the people of this country," reads the platform. "A nameless coterie, masquerading in the name of a great political party, seeks to clinch its tyranny upon this community by seizing the bench of the Circuit and Superior courts for its command creatures."

This brazen attempt upon the independence of the judiciary does violence to the spirit of the American constitution of constitutions in all nations of free peoples.

"The consciousness political machine, which now aims at the domination of the judiciary, has not one reason in its record."

EVANSTON'S MAD SQUIRREL AGAIN HITS WARPATH

Men are going to be added to Evanston police force.

Word was received yesterday by Sergeant Robert Johnson that mad squirrel of Evanston was run amuck again. Dr. R. W. Barron telephoned that Mrs. G. H. West, of 123 Oakwood avenue, Evanston, and many guests have been invited for the occasion.

Mr. West, formerly a member of the Wisconsin legislature, was EDMUND A. WEST, presented at the first meeting of the Republican party. He says he has never voted the Democratic ticket in his life.

In their haste to simulate innocence they leaped into two beds. Thus they found apparently asleep. Bynum, under the stress of necessity, waived his proprieties and dived into the occupied by Mrs. Barron. So did to his miseries of arrest, he himself the object of Barron's special guests all the way to the station where both were locked up.

FEUD, SUIT, FIGHT, TRAIL TELEPHONE CALL TO WOMAN

Mystery Message Causes Warfare at Hotel.

The peace and serenity of the Madison Park hotel, Hyde Park boulevard and Dorchester avenue, was undisturbed, it is alleged, until Milton Simon, a movie magnate, was introduced to Mrs. William Kahl, wife of the manager of the Speed King manufacturing company. Since then the families have been at war and the Kahls have been reinforced by Samuel Goldberg, Mrs. Kahl's father, who is in the auto accessory business. A consultation by the women folks, a request to the management to eject the Simons, a suit for $25,000 alleging slander, and the final meeting of Simon and Kahl in tragic encounter, all are incidents marking the feud.

Mrs. Kahl is pretty. When a man talking over the telephone said he was Mr. Simon and would she like to take dinner with him, she dutifully told her husband about it. Kahl phoned Simon, asking whether he were the caller. Simon said, "No," and Kahl apologized.

Mrs. Simons Steps In.

But Mrs. Simons became interested.

"What's this about my husband trying to make a dinner date with you?" she asked Mrs. Kahl. "What time did he call?"

"It was 10 o'clock yesterday morning," was the reply.

"O, then, it wasn't Mr. Simon, because he was with me at that time," said Mrs. Simon with relief.

Then came the alleged remarks by Mr. Goldberg.

"That fellow Simon is no good," he is quoted as saying. "I've looked at him and he's a four flusher and insulted my daughter. I want him put out of this hotel."

Simon consulted his lawyers, Kettle & Bidwell. They wrote Goldberg and Kahl. No answer. Last week they filed suit against both for $25,000.

Fight Fistic Duel.

On Saturday night at the 51st street station of the Illinois Central Simon and Kahl met. Witnesses said it was a good fight. Simon bore no marks, but modestly declined to claim a victory. Kahl was nothing.

Yesterdays Mrs. Kahl said she had "purposely misstated the time of the alleged telephone call to Mrs. Simon."

"I wished to save her the embarrassment," she said. "But it is true he phoned me. It's just terrible, all this publicity. My lawyer will take care of them, though."

The bank officials issued a terse statement, assuring their customers the bank would be fully compensated, being fully covered by insurance.

MODEL EMPLOYEE OF BANK JAILED; $23,800 MISSING

Teller Held Place of Trust 20 Years.

Horace Grier, assistant paying teller of the National Bank of the Republic and for twenty years a trusted employee of the institution, was arrested yesterday, charged with the embezzlement of $23,800. The warrant for Grier, a native of New York, was issued out after C. H. MacPherson, assistant cashier, had consulted with Assistant United States District Attorney Meyer Linker.

Pinkertons and a deputy marshal arrested Grier at his desk in the bank. Commissioner Mason fixed his bonds at $1,000 and he was taken to the Lake County jail at Waukegan.

Shortages in Grier's cash accounts covering a period of several months were discovered through an examination of his books, it is said.

IRVING PARK TO ASK MORE POLICE IN MORON FIGHT

Representatives of the Lion's club of Irving Park, an organization of business men, will ask Chief of Police Charles C. Flitzgerald for additional protection in Irving Park as the result of an attack upon an aged woman Monday night.

She was seized by the throat and dragged into an alley by a man. She struggled and tried to scream, but was overpowered and rendered unconscious.

Thomas O'Hare, 32 years old, was held to the grand jury in bonds of $7,500 on a serious charge preferred by Mrs. Helen Kostley, 6621 Kenwood avenue.

For a time she became ill and doctors told her she could not live. So what might have been the honey mooner's train is speeding towards Elgin with the girl's body. Accompanying it is the husband, for they were married in the Old Borgess hospital two hours before Mrs. Jenkins died.

H ERE'S a dear little picture in which the sunshiny Miss Binney and an Al supporting cast win your warm appreciation. It's not one of those world beaters you hear about—and so seldom sees—but contents you with a wholesome and quite interesting story: good acting, fine playing, and especially pleasant atmosphere throughout.

Miss Binney is Mary Malley, temporarily blooming in a hotel kitchen. The warmest and most generous heart in the world has Mary. She's forever giving the under dog a lift.

She is an orphan—ante-dated unknown. Away down in the bottom of a old trunk she carries a cup bearing a coat of arms that had been the property of her mother. When money is scarce she pawns the cup. Money is usually scarce, and so the cup is in hock most of the time.

One day it attracts the attention of a gentleman of ideas.

He is a rich man who finds out she is heiress, supposed granddaughter of an Irish peer. Lord Fitzroy, said gentleman being impersonated by one known in certain questionable circles as "The Patriarch."

She is really, unknowing, quite at the mercy of a band of crooks—a kindly bunch, after all—when rescued by an enterprising young reporter, who appears with the real Lord Fitzroy, who also happens to be really pretty Mary's grandad.

Vincent Coleman, the lead, is a better actor than he looks to be. He is a hard and sincere worker. Old Mr. Gilmore—used to be connected with the drama, don't know what else—serves well. —is fine as the boorish lord. I think, though, that perhaps the audience was most in love with Mr. Strauss as the pawnbroker. Such an awful time he had in making the promptings of head and heart balance!

Miss Binney is lovely—as always, a regular girl, I bet you!

CLOSEUPS

Rosemary Theby and Harry Myers are said to be contemplating a series of domestic comedies—like the ones Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew formerly made. Remember—they used to play together in the old Lubin days?

Latest reports have it that Jean Acker—knows who she is—is laid up, her hand having been clutched by her pet bulldog. Look for a coming picture. It will quite likely be "The Lady and the Dog."

We knew it! We knew it! Listen to this just arrived from the coast:

"Bebe Daniels is going to make a picture based on her experiences in jail for speeding. She left the Santa Anna jail yesterday and drove so slowly to town that she said she was afraid they would arrest her for stopping traffic."

They'll even go to jail to advertise.

Mae Marsh in "Nobbody's Kid" has been added to the program at Barbee's.

The Meeting Adjourned.

I was teaching in a small town in Iowa. It was about the third day of the fall term, and the high school teachers were gathered in the superintendent's office during various question periods. During the meeting, I was asked if I had any irregular pupils.

"Yes," I said, "I have one—a junior boy in my English class. I don't know his name, but he is that tall, sleepy eyed looking fellow who sits in the first seat of the second row."

"I guess that's my son," said the superintendent quietly.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Revere the rever—here is one of the slogans of the dress spring of 1921. It really quite astonishing to find the number of frocks finished with this sort of neckline. The propaganda for rever celebration has been so strong, indeed, that even the men in the movies seem to be affected. For example, Calot makes the white satin corsage of a popular dancing frock of hers with pronounced revers crossing to the wide tunic of black tulle. In the above charming spring frock of black and white figured foulard posed over black satin the rever line is furnished by a collar of white organza embroidered in black. The girdle of plaited black patent leather with its acorn ornaments is particularly smart.

HARDING PRAISES THE ASSOCIATED PRESS IN WAR

Ex-Ambassador Davis Addresses News Men.

New York, April 26.—Praise of American newspapers by President Harding and an address by Mr. W. Davis, formerly ambassador to Great Britain featured the annual luncheon of the Associated Press, held yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Sherman, Chicago.

In a letter read at the luncheon, President Harding lauded the course of the press during the war and expressed the hope that his administration would continue to deserve the support accorded it thus far by the news papers.

Davis for Majority Treaty Rule.

Mr. Davis, making his first appearance before the members as general counsel for the Associated Press, had kind words for the press and said many good qualities as he had found it exemplified by the Associated Press, and, referring to the importance of foreign news, digressed to give personal opinion on several matters affecting foreign relations of the United States.

He urged that a treaty should be ratified by a majority vote of the senate, instead of two-thirds, and that there be adequate compensation for the dipomatic and consular service.

Directors Are Elected.

A resolution of thanks to the president and officials of the association was adopted.

The following directors were elected for a term of three years: W. H. Cowles, Spokane, Wash., Spokesman Review; Victor F. Lawson, Chicago Daily News; Frank P. MacLennan, Topeka, Kas.; State Journal; D. J. Moore, New Orleans, La.; Times-Picayune; D. E. Town, Louisville, Ky., Herald. To fill the unexpired term of C. Weiss of the Duluth, Minn., Herald, resigned, H. V. Jones of the Minneapolis, Minn., Journal was elected.

"Eeny, meeny, miny, mo,
Catch a monkey by his toe,
If he hollers, let him go—
Eeny, meeny, miny, mo!"

Counting out like that would have simplified matters a lot for the judges. But the more power to 'em! They had to go over and over the good points, the bad points, and all the million indifferent points to pick the winners. And winners they were from Michigan, weren't they?

Now for a few days you are being given an opportunity to see what some of the Indiana attractions are. And on Sunday the picture of the most beautiful girl in the state will be printed in this Tribune, along with the nine other winners. The very prettiest is to have $1,000, the second $250, the third $100, and the last seven $50 each. To say nothing of the chance to earn the grand prize of $15,000, which is to go to the queen of the central western states after Wisconsin, Iowa, Illinois and the city of Chicago have found out who their fairest maidens are. Don't forget, Indiana's will be shown on Sunday!

Toilet Preparations

For many years American women have indicated a preference for Lady Alice. Those who wish about them a soft reminder of Springtime eventually choose Lady Alice Perfume or Toilet Water.

For the Kitchenette Apartment

And any other apartment where the living room is used as a sleeping room at night, the day bed was recommended by a well-known writer on interior furnishings in a Sunday paper not so long ago, in preference to the wall bed or any of the other combination beds now on the market.

The Revell double-day bed will add a bed room to your present quarters, enhancing the beauty of the room at the same time. You sleep on a Sagless Spring, which holds all the bedding when closed.

Mahogany finish and a choice of coverings.
